

BH ELECTRONICS, INC.

COUNTERFEIT GOODS POLICY

In order to protect our customers and end users, BH Electronics carefully controls the sales and distribution of its components.

BH Electronics' component products can only be purchased directly from BH Electronics or from an intermediary (distributor or kitting company) specified by the OEM customer.

Products purchased through any other supply chain must be considered as possibly counterfeit. Further, only customers who purchase through the above listed channels can receive technical support, warranty coverage and replacement for returned goods. If you have received defective, counterfeit, obsolete, remarked or repackaged products, please contact the merchant who sold them.

By purchasing only through BH Electronics' authorized channels, you are sure of getting:

- Factory-fresh products in the original packaging
- The most current product version
- Complete traceability including RoHS and country of origin information
- Certificates of Compliance when requested
- Components guaranteed to meet BH Electronics' performance specifications
- Products manufactured using only items purchased from Original Component Manufacturers or Authorized Distributors with full traceability
